

KATIE SIMPSON · PHOTOGRAPH USED WITH HER FAMILY'S PERMISSION

We won't look away again.

Katie Simpson was 21, a talented showjumper from County Armagh who loved her profession. In August 2020 her death was ruled a suicide. Her family and friends knew different. Seven months later, a man was charged with her murder.

The Katie Trust was founded in her name by James Brannigan, a retired Detective Sergeant, for every family left with questions after a death. We review what happened, we stand with families, and we take the learning to the police so it is not repeated.

We listen. We care. We act.

Scan to donate

If a death in your family was closed too soon, talk to us. One email is enough to start.

james@thekatietrust.com · 07787 557767 · thekatietrust.com · Free, independent, in Katie's name.

Registered charity in Northern Ireland NIC111085 · Working in partnership with The Bridle Path Initiative CIC · Not an emergency service: in immediate contact call 0800 111 111 (UK) or 112 (Ireland)